

A case study with a leading biopharmaceutical company.

We recently caught up with the Head of Clinical Operations at a biotechnology organisation, focused on Radio-Immuno-Therapy Research & Development, whom CK have worked with on a number of occasions during her career.

01

What does your organisation do?

Radio-immuno-therapy research and development.

02

What was your motivation for working with CK?

They've done a good job in the past in aiding our recruitment campaigns so I am pleased to carry on working with CK Clinical.

03

Can you describe how CK has been able to help you and your company?

CK have done an excellent job in consistently supporting me over the years in finding excellent candidates to staff my department with talented clinical operations professionals of all levels.

04

What sets CK apart from other suppliers?

What sets CK apart from other suppliers for me is how responsive they are to my needs and how they are able to have honest and candid conversations in order to facilitate a successful recruitment process.

05

Have CK Clinical managed to find you the right staff and would you recommend them?

They always find me suitable candidates and they have recently filled a Clinical Study Manager role for us. I would highly recommend them.
